

Vantree Technologies — Contractor Handbook

Document ID: HR-HB-01-C | Version 1.3 | Last updated: April 2026 | Owner: People Operations

This handbook applies to independent contractors and consultants engaged by Vantree Technologies. It mirrors much of the Employee Handbook (HR-HB-01) but differs on the points below. Where this document does not address a topic, the contractor's individual services agreement governs.

1. Code of Conduct

Contractors are expected to follow the same Code of Conduct as employees, described in the Employee Handbook, Section 2, including the anonymous ethics hotline at ethics@vantree.example.

2. Leave and Time Off

Contractors do not accrue paid vacation, sick leave, or parental leave, as these are employee benefits tied to Vantree's payroll. Contractors are compensated per the terms of their individual services agreement (typically hourly or fixed-fee) and should coordinate time away from a project directly with their Vantree point of contact.

3. Remote Work

Most contractor engagements are fully remote by default and do not require the on-site day minimums described in the Employee Handbook, Section 4. Contractors working on-site at a Vantree office should coordinate badge access with their engagement manager.

4. Expense Reimbursement

Unless otherwise specified in the services agreement, contractors are not eligible for the Expense Reimbursement process described in the Employee Handbook, Section 5, including the home office and client meal allowances. Any project-related expenses should be negotiated as part of the contract rate or invoiced separately per the agreement terms.

5. Systems Access

Contractors are provisioned with scoped access to only the systems required for their engagement, following the same MFA and data classification rules in the IT Security Policy (SEC-POL-02). Access is automatically revoked on the contract end date rather than following the 4-hour offboarding window used for employees.

6. Performance Feedback

Contractors are not part of the formal twice-yearly performance review cycle described in the Employee Handbook, Section 6. Engagement managers may provide informal feedback at project milestones or contract renewal.
